SHOW DEDICATEE

STEVE & DALE BERTSCHE FAMILIES

BY: RACHEL BOOTH

The farm ground is not the only place bearing roots near Flanagan, Illinois, the Bertsche family's roots also run deep in the Charolais breed.

The Bertsche family was first introduced to the Charolais breed in 1960 when Paul Bertsche bought LaFraise Farm's first group of Charolais cattle. Since Steve Bertsche was six-years-old and those very first white cattle stepped off the trailer onto the family farm, the Bertsche family has been nothing but involved in the breed.

Today, LaFraise Farms is operated by brothers Steve, Dale and Larry. The brothers grew up together on the family's grain and cattle operation being actively involved in 4-H and junior cattle associations.

When the boys were of age, they got involved with leadership conferences put on by the American-International Charolais Association. At the time, these events were only leadership conferences which eventually lead to the junior national event put on today, Steve said. Since their very first Charolais Junior National, both Steve and Dale have involved their families in the breed and raised their children up through the American - International Junior Charolais Association.

Both Steve and Dale have involved their families on the show road. The LaFraise Farms show crew is made up of Steve, his wife Julie and their children, Brandon, Jennifer, Troy and Trent, Dale, his wife Kathy and their children Nick, Tanner and Keegan and show barn manager Tom.

"Growing up we watched how hard my dad and Uncle Steve work together," Nick said. "That same work ethic you can tell has trickled down to the next generation of my brothers and cousins."

LaFraise Farms not only been involved in the breed, but they have also led many champions through the show ring through the years. Steve and Dale both have a keen eye for cattle, which has helped build their operation of the quality it is today. In 1993 Dale had the opportunity to judge on a three man panel with Randy Daniel and Jim Williams at 25th National Charolais Show at the American Royal in Kansas City, Missouri.

When Steve and Dale were out on the road for cattle shows and sales, their brother Larry and show barn manager of 20 years Tom always picked up the slack. They play an important role as the men behind the scenes, taking care of the cattle and the farm.

"My family has always made things happen and been supportive, now as a parent I have a different perspective and understanding of what my parents did for us," Troy said.

Through the years hauling cattle to participate in Junior National Charolais shows and activities the Bertsche family has put in the miles and spent many hours in the cab of a truck together as a family.

"Growing up I always looked forward to our Junior National trip, it was great to make those memories of time spent with my family," Troy said.

When the kids were younger, they were involved in sports and other activities so loading up as a family was special to the Bertsche family.

The Bred & Owned division was always important to the Bertsche family, it was something they took pride in.

"When the kids would pick out a heifer to show, she became theirs and they knew whatever she produced as a cow they would have as a Bred & Owned heifer." Steve said. "This stopped the arguments on who was going to show which animal, everyone knew what they had, and they were able make their own breeding decisions."

Although the Bertsche kids have always had a competitive spirit, the true rivalry was when the Bertsche boots hit the arena dirt for showmanship, Troy said.

From the Bertsche family they have had three AIJCA Board of Directors, three Gold Elite Awards recipients, two Herdsmen of the Year, a Fieldman's Workhorse award, a Chad Clark Memorial Outstanding Senior, and were recognized as with the first Family of the Year award in 2004.

"Being raised in the Charolais breed and being involved in the junior program has helped shape me into who I am today. I'm still caring the lessons I learned with me," Nick said.

Brandon, Troy and Trent all served on the AIJCA board in various roles. Through their time on the board they not only developed as individuals, but they also made lifetime connections and friendships.

Troy commented how being on the board allowed him to go to many great places, make lasting friendships and through his experiences on the board it better prepared him for his career. His involvement on the board also prepared him to serve as the recent Area 10 elect on the AICA Board of Directors. Troy is the third generation to serve on the AICA board, following the footsteps of his dad and grandpa Bertsche.

"As a junior board member, you not only get to learn more about what it takes to put on a Junior National show, but also have the opportunity to meet people, and form a team with the other board members," Brandon said.

Older board members were credited for influencing and serving as leaders to the Bertsche kids.

"The older board members did a good job taking leadership roles and by being very approachable and kind they were a great example to follow," Troy commented.

"I am proud of my family and the way they have developed through the junior program and through the Charolais Association," Steve said.
