SHOW DEDICATEE

Tom Sonderup

By: Emma Richards

Tom Sonderup is remembered for pioneering a multigenerational operation and for his overwhelming generosity, still, it's clear that his legacy is immeasurable, not even by his yellow yardstick suspenders.

The Sonderup cattle operation at Fullerton, Nebraska started with Tom Sonderup's father, Vern, who made his living as a farmer and commercial cattleman. However, it was Tom who took the cattle operation to new heights. He was among the first to introduce the Charolais breed to Central Nebraska when the Sonderup family purchased their first purebred bull in 1962 and Tom started to build his cow herd.

After graduating from college in 1976, Tom knew he wanted to return to the cattle industry and started his career by managing the Tri R Cattle Co. herd. After growing the herd in numbers, he and his wife Sandy eventually took over operations to form Sonderup Charolais Ranch Inc. Through Tom's leadership, the ranch was known for being one of the earliest to adopt AI and ET as common practice. In the 80's, he began using a linear measurement system which coincided with his focus on practical cattle that could perform. Tom and his family frequented cattle shows as exhibitors including the Nebraska State Fair, Nebraska Cattlemen's Classic, Husker Harvest Days, and the National Western in Denver where his presence in the yards represented a friendly face and his participation in the carload and pen shows reinforced his commitment to uniformity.

Working with several cooperators in Nebraska, Tom managed and marketed calves from over 1000 cows annually. His focus remained constant, profitability for cow-calf producers through to the packing floor. Though Tom and Sandy dispersed their cow herd in 2022 and held their final bull sale in 2023, the goal of their breeding stayed true through it all, to raise and sell the most useful product for seedstock cattlemen, commercial producers, and youth alike.

"My first Junior National was in Rapid City, South Dakota, and I had a class winner. My last Junior National was in Bowling Green, Kentucky, and I had another class winner. He was always so excited about that. He was such a big proponent of kids participating in agriculture and saw Charolais cattle as a good fit for kids learning about the cattle industry and getting kids involved with cattle that would work in the pasture, show ring or not."

- Kelly Hale, Oldest Daughter

No doubt, Tom Sonderup is easily recognized within the cattle industry, but many know him also for Papa Tom's BBQ. Since 2010, Papa Tom's has set up shop alongside the cattle barn at the Nebraska State Fair. He was originally asked to serve exhibitors breakfast and was offered a booth outside the barn to do it, but Tom had other plans. He recognized exhibitors and their families needed short lines and affordable, delicious food while exhibiting their livestock. So, he established a food truck and returned each year after that. As Papa Tom's BBQ grew popular, Tom helped cater countless events, including Charolais Junior Nationals and other regional and national livestock events.

In fact, Tom Sonderup once again demonstrated his commitment to Charolais youth and AICA when he advocated hosting Junior National for the first time in decades at the brand-new Nebraska State Fairgrounds in Grand Island. He served on the planning committee in 2012, 2017, and 2022 and always offered to prepare or coordinate the meals for each day. Tom was always glad to focus his time and efforts on AICA, AIJCA, and the Charolais breed. In return, he has been recognized as the 1991 AICA Seedstock Producer of the Year, a nominee for the 1991 BIF Seedstock Producer of the Year, 2011 Nebraska Farm Bureau Farm Family of the Day, and this year's AIJCA Junior National Show Dedicattee.

Tom Sonderup passed away last year, and is survived by his loving wife Sandy, his four daughters Kelly, Jamie, Tracy, and Heidi, and his six grandchildren. To know Tom was to know a pioneer raising Charolais cattle but his true pride and joy was always his family. His kindness and willingness to serve others live on with them.
